FILIBUSTER SCARE

Senate Hears Plan to Cause Disarmament by All Nations Under Fear of U. S. Power.

Washington, January 24.—(AP)—

The adoption of a cruiser construction plan devised to accelerate an equitable disarmament of navies rather than to promote a new naval building race between the United States and Great Britain was asked in the senate today by Senator Borah, of Idaho, during the first spirited discussion of the administration's program for the construction of 16 auxiliary war ships.

He declared that first, the cruiser bill should be adopted without the "time clause" under which the construction of all of the new ships would be started within three years and, second, that provision should be made for a conference to restate the rights of neutrals at sea because, he added, the protection of commerce is the underlying reason for the desire of large navies.

To eliminate the time clause, Senator Borah argued, would give the United States an effective weapon for further disarmament without actually spending large sums for construction of warships which later might be scrapped.

The need for a restatement of sea rights of a neutral power, the Idaho senator continued, was manifested in the "uneasiness" which envelops the world over naval strength solely because the commercial interests of a country would expect a government to protect them adequately by the use of power if the power claiming communit of the sea were to interfere with that neutral's commerce during a war.

The senator said his idea of a powerful instrument for the United States to curb world naval building would be first to postpone actual building of the American navy until the United States was satisfied there could be no agreement on size, and second, until an agreement with the respect to the rights of a neutral power on the high seas had been shown to be impossible.

"If we cannot get them," Senator Borah declared, "we will know our duty and meet it."

The address of the Idaho senator, frequently interrupted by his colleagues, was the first general discussion of the cruiser bill since it reached the senate. The then present threat of filibustering during the present week seemed to have disappeared completely today.

At the outset of the debate, Chairman Hale of the naval affairs committee, which has charge of the bill, told the senate he would expect members to hold closely to the subject matter of the cruiser program from now on and that while he would not object to legitimate debate on the measure, he was anxious to bring it to a close.

"Does the senator think we could not pass this bill?" he asked.

QUESTION MARK
WILL NOT LAND
AT ATLANTA PORT

Montgomery, Ala., January 24.—(AP)—Captain Ira Eaker, pilot of the army trimotor monoplane Question Mark, announced tonight shortly after arriving here that the Question Mark, weather permitting, would hop off at 7 a. m. tomorrow on a non-stop flight to Bolling field, Washington.

Captain Eaker said he expected the flight to require the entire day, timing his arrival at the Washington airport at about sunset.

The Question Mark, carrying a crew of four, landed at Maxwell field here at 5:15 p. m. after a flight of slightly over two hours from Monroe, La. The plane landed at Monroe after a flight of nearly three hours from Shreveport, La., where it was held overnight because of inclement weather.

This decision will preclude a stop in Atlanta as had been planned previously.

SEARS, ROEBUCK
TO START ADDITION
Work on $500,000 Wing
To Big Local Plant Will Be Put Under Way Today.

Erection of a new wing to the local plant of Sears, Roebuck and company, adding approximately 20 per cent to the capacity of the plant and costing $500,000, will get under way today when excavation work will be started by B. W. Construction company, L. H. Beall, head of the Atlanta branch, stated Thursday.

The new structure will join the present building on the west end, fitting in perfectly with the architectural scheme and resulting, when completed, in a single huge structure, one of the largest in the south. The new wing will add 120 feet to the Ponce de Leon avenue frontage and 100,000 square feet to the space facilities of the large mail order and retail concern in Beall's said.

It will be five stories high, above basement. The upper floors will be used for additional warehouse space in the mail order department, while the first floor will connect directly with the present retail department and serve as an enlargement of that division.

When the original structure was completed a little more than two years ago, plans were laid for future expansion when the demand for additional facilities was created. The decision to erect a new five-story building at this time reflects the rapid growth of the company's mail order business in the southeastern states supplied from Atlanta, as well as in the retail business of the concern.

The B. & W. Construction company, of Chicago, the same engineering organization which constructed the original plant here, will have steam shovels on the site of the new building this morning and begin excavations, with the construction to be carried through to completion as quickly as possible, it was stated.

It was planned that the building will be ready for business operations in six months, in time for the company's fall business. General Manager Beall asserted.

The Sears-Roebuck Atlanta plant, as it stands today, represents an investment for construction of $3,000,000. This figure will be boosted to $3,500,000 when the wing at the west end is completed. The plant now stands nine stories over a basement at its highest point, which will be the center of the completed structure. The five-story new building will add to the symmetry of the plant. The original site purchased by the company on the southeast corner of Ponce de Leon avenue and Glen Iris drive, provided for the original building and future expansions. Until now the unimproved portion of the lot has been devoted to automobile parking space.

At this space, extending from the present structures to Glen Iris, will be required for the proposed addition. However, the company will still maintain large parking area for its patrons in the rear of the building.

MRS. J. R. HORNADY
GETS RESIGNATION
FROM 5 OFFICERS

Officials Elected Along With Mrs. Goodman To Quit Posts; Hornady Board Meets Today.

An echo of the special election held Wednesday by the Atlanta Woman's club came Thursday when five of the officers who were elected with and served under Mrs. Charles Goodman, tendered their resignations to Mrs. J. R. Hornady, victor in Wednesday's contest for the presidency.

A desire to have Mrs. Hornady working with officers of her own choice was given by several as the reason.

While only five of the eight officers stated Thursday night that they had sent their resignations to the new president, a sixth indicated that she would do so in the immediate future and one, Mrs. Robert I. Reed, the secretary, was out of the city and could not be reached.

Those resigning were Mrs. Shepard Bryan, first vice president; Mrs. Victor Kreisshaber, second vice president; Mrs. J. A. Carlisle, treasurer, and Mrs. John F. MacDougald, auditor. Mrs. O. F. Kauffman, assistant treasurer, stated that she plans to extend her resignation soon, probably on Friday.

No Comment Made.

Mrs. Hornady declined to comment on the resignations, stating that she would have no statement to make concerning any officer until after a meeting of her executive board, which is scheduled for 10:30 o'clock this morning at the club building. At this gathering all matters pertaining to the future operation of the club will be dealt with, Mrs. Hornady said.

The executive board is made up of chairmen for the various club committees, as appointed by the president, in which is the right to appoint officers to hold position until the next regular election in the advent of vacancies, according to Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, Sr., club parliamentarian.

Loyal to Club.

The resigning officers, all of whom were elected last May 14 and served under Mrs. Goodman while she was in control of the club, declined to make any detailed statements of their action. Several indicated their loyalty to the club and stated that they would do their best to aid in its maintenance. None indicated that the result of the election would influence her to sever her relations with the club completely.

Mrs. Hornady assumed charge of the club at noon Thursday, following the issuance of Judge Humphries' order. Returns of the election were certified to the court Thursday morning by Hugh Burgess and Robert Hamrick, tellers appointed by Judge Humphries.

Mrs. Hornady Thursday night said that the members of the executive board appointed by her last May when she held the office of president will be ratified by her as the board for her administration.

Mrs. Elizabeth Eich, 17, is dead and her husband, Ernest, is reported near death at Grady hospital with three bullet wounds in his abdomen following a quarrel at the home of Eich's parents Wednesday night. Ambassador to Mexico Expected To Continue in Post; President-Elect Goes Fishing.

Miami Beach, Fla., January 24.—(AP)—President-elect Hoover and Dwight W. Morrow today held a two-hour conference out of which came even more clearer indication than had been given before that the ambassador to Mexico is not slated for a cabinet post, at least at the beginning of the new administration.

After two weeks in New York, for which he departed tonight, Mr. Morrow will return to Mexico City, where he is expected to remain indefinitely, carrying forward the work of improving relations between the two adjoining North American republics, a work which has attracted much attention in diplomatic circles.

In the absence of any official announcement, full details of the conference are unknown, but there was a thorough discussion of conditions in Mexico with the president-elect asking a number of questions in keeping with his plan to acquaint himself as fully as possible about affairs of all of the sister republics before he takes over the office of president.

Just when Mr. Morrow will be able to carry out a personal desire to visit Mexico even he can not determine at this time, but after his inauguration he intends to do so. Also he hopes to visit Cuba and the West Indies during some vacation time if the opportunity does not present while he is in Florida and it is unlikely that he will since he still must prepare his inaugural address and hold a number of conferences before returning to Washington.

Following Mr. Morrow's call Herbert Hoover, the president-elect, to Son.

DIES OF INJURIES
RECEIVED IN FALL

Funeral Services of Associate Editor of Constitution Will Be Held Saturday.

James A. Hollomon, associate editor of The Constitution, died at 10:10 o'clock Thursday night at the Georgia Baptist hospital as the result of injuries received Tuesday night when he fell two stories down the stairwell of the Henry Grady hotel.

Although his condition was considered almost hopeless from the first, he rallied Wednesday, spending a good night, Thursday afternoon, however, his condition took a turn for the worse and then it was seen that his death was only a matter of hours.

Funeral Rites Saturday.

Funeral services will be conducted at 8 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Central Congregational church and the Rev. Witherspoon Dodge will officiate. The undertaking firm of Barclay & Brandon has been placed in charge of arrangements and the body has been removed to the chapel there.

In the accident in which he was fatally injured, Mr. Hollomon suffered several fractures as well as internal injuries. He was leaving the hotel at the time, after holding a conference with officials of the agricultural congress, which is to be held at the capitol on January 30, and, according to eye-witnesses, stumbled and fell over the stair railing before any one could prevent the accident.

It was typical of the man that his last activity should be in the interest of southern agriculture. He was constantly at work seeking the prosperity and advance of his city, state and nation and it was following his suggestion that the pending congress was held at the capitol on January 30, and, according to eye-witnesses, stumbled and fell over the stair railing before any one could prevent the accident.

James A. Hollomon was one of the best-known figures in southern journalism and a man who was beloved by his associates in the profession and by thousands of leaders in all walks of life with whom he came in closest contact.

He was 59 years old, having been born in Hertford county, North Carolina, on November 24, 1869. His parents were Leonard and Temperance Annie Hollomon. After his graduation from the public schools of his county he attended Wake Forest college, of North Carolina, graduating there on June 12, 1890, with the degree of bachelor of arts.

He quickly turned to journalism after his graduation, finding there a field for his remarkable gifts of brain and heart which later were to make him so powerful a figure within the craft, and so trenchant an editorial fighter in everything that advanced the cause of humanity and the progress of his adopted state of Georgia.

Advanced Rapidly.

He advanced as a newspaperman rapidly and became widely known as managing editor of The Atlanta Journal and later as Washington correspondent and political commentator for that paper.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Washington, January 24.—Announcement was made here today of the forthcoming marriage of Mrs. Eula Jackson Alsop, formerly of Atlanta, to Lieut. Commander Frederic W. Neilson, of the naval air service, most assigned to duty in Washington.

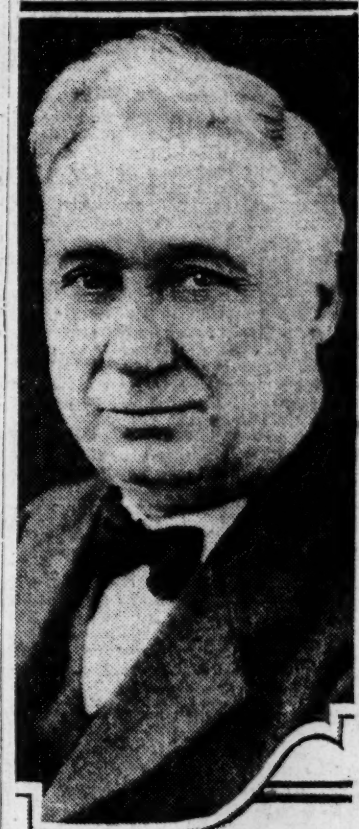

The wedding is scheduled to take place at the Church of the Covenant here next Monday, January 28, with the Rev. Dr. Charles Wood officiating.

First news of the approaching wedding of Mrs. Alsop, whose maiden name was Eula Jackson, came in the form of a marriage license by District of Columbia officials, following granting of a divorce at Reno, Nev., to Mrs. Eula Garrison Neilson, first wife of Lieut. Commander Neilson. Mrs. Alsop obtained a divorce in 1925 in Paris from Edward Huslop, son of a Pittsburgh steel millionaire.

Commander Neilson, a descendant of the Vanderbilt and Cushing families, is believed to have inherited a fortune from his grandmother recently. His divorced wife was socially prominent in New York.

Mrs. Alsop was awarded the custody of her two children by the Paris court and brought them here to reside with her in the 2900 block of Massachusetts avenue, N. W.

Representatives Say Senate Is Now "Lower House" and Acts Without Regard to Budget.

Washington, January 24.—(AP)—

Signaling the approach of a storm of debate over the proposal to place $24,000,000 in the hands of the president for prohibition enforcement, democratic members of the house today made an unsuccessful attempt to learn when the deficiency bill carrying this senate amendment would reach the floor.

The formal announcement that the senate had passed the measure had hardly died away before Representative Hastings, democrat, Oklahoma, asked Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican leader, as to his plans for calling the bill up in the house for consideration.

Representatives Garner and Blanton, both Texas democrats, joined in pressing the inquiry and urged that ample notice be given the house in order that members who were interested in the legislation might be present.

Expect Day's Notice.

"I have asked the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Wood, who is the ranking member of the appropriations committee, to give me a day's notice before calling it up," Tilson said.

"But will the house be informed in advance?" asked Garner. "I know of many members who are interested in the legislation and who would like to be present when it comes up." "It was my purpose in asking for the information to be instructed, and was informed that it was not. The conferees have not yet been named."

Edwards did not signify how he wished them to be instructed, but the Georgia house delegation in caucus yesterday voted unanimously to support the amendment which was sponsored in the senate by Senator Harris, the senior member of that body from Georgia.

Sides Lining Up for Fight.

While the southern democrats were indicating that they would press for adoption of the proposal by the house a number of the wet eastern democrats were making plans to join dry republicans in opposition.

Representative Weller, democrat, New York, issued a statement characterizing the amendment as "just a

Vinson Measure Doom Seen As Smith Gives Up Fight For Senate Companion Bill

Proposal To Put New York Cotton Exchange Under Supervision Off For This Session.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Washington, January 24.—Hope for the final passage this session of the Vinson bill, approved by the lower house this week and providing for stringent government regulation of the New York Cotton Exchange, was practically abandoned today when it became apparent that the measure will be opposed by Senator Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina, author of companion legislation now pending in the upper chamber.

The measure, sponsored by Representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia, would place the New York Cotton Exchange under the same strict federal supervision and regulation as now applies to grain exchange, notably the wheat pit of the Chicago board of trade.

Senator Smith, a member of the special joint committee which investigated cotton trade conditions, announced today that he would not press for the passage of his companion bill in the upper chamber, which means that both measures will in all probability fail by default. Unless final approval of the Vinson bill is forthcoming in the senate before the constitutional adjournment March 4, it will be necessary for the legislation to be offered again in the house at the next session.

Object Accomplished.
In explanation of his lagging interest, the South Carolina senator said the New York exchange had voluntarily put into practice most of the major features provided for in the bill; namely, designation of points of southern deliveries, creation of a control board and limitation of the amount of cotton any individual or firm could trade in on the exchange in any one month.

At the beginning of agitation for federal regulation of the exchange Senator Smith was regarded as perhaps the leading proponent of the legislation. He now takes the position that it would be wise to give officials of the exchange an opportunity to work out necessary reforms among themselves without government interference.

Although President Marshall of the exchange, vigorously opposed the proposed regulation at the time hearings were conducted by committees of the house and senate, since then the reform practices have been adopted voluntarily, in an effort, it is suggested, to obviate the necessity of congressional action. While the principal feature of the bill was adopted, that calling for points of southern deliveries, the exchange imposed a penalty of $1.75 per bale on such deliveries, amounting to approximately 35 points on future transactions.

Dixie Cities for Bill.
Savannah and Augusta are two of the 10 southern delivery points designated in the legislation, and several of the local exchanges in the cities mentioned have strongly urged final adoption of the bill. Proponents of the measure argue that it would be more effective to have the reforms made permanent under government supervision and regulation.

Representative Vinson intends to press for adoption in the senate and will be actively aided by Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, and other southern members, he stated, but the outlook is not regarded as bright in the face of Senator Smith's present passive attitude. As chairman of the cotton sub-committee of the senate agricultural committee handling the legislation, his recommendations are usually regarded with some weight.

It was the contention of the Georgia congressman at the time hearings were in progress that regulation of the exchange would go a long way in stabilizing cotton prices. Such a prediction was also made by Samuel P. Arnot, president of the Chicago board of trade, who was called before the committee to testify concerning the operations of the wheat pit under federal supervision.

Tallahassee, Fla., January 24.—(P) An application for the extradition of S. J. Farr, Miami hotel auditor, to Atlanta to answer a charge of abandoning his wife, was denied today by Governor Carlton. Farr's attorneys announced.

A hearing in the matter was held yesterday before Assistant Attorney General Roy Campbell, who recommended that the extradition be denied. Paul Donohoe, Atlanta attorney, represented the state of Georgia and Marion Brooks, Miami, and Miss Madeline Jacobson, Tallahassee, appeared for Farr.

AL SMITH DEPARTS FOR FLORIDA RESORT

Savannah, Ga., January 24.—(P) Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, after spending four days here, will entrain late today for Sarasota, Fla., to visit John Ringling.

He will be accompanied by John J. Raskob and W. F. Kenny in Mr. Kenny's private car. Two Savannah men, Carl Espry, who Smith has been visiting here, and Henry C. Walthour, will be in the party.

Early today Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Espry and Mrs. Kenny left for Florida by motor. They will spend the night at St. Augustine or Daytona Beach, proceeding to Sarasota tomorrow morning.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Hudson B. Wise, of this city, called upon Mr. Smith with her five-months-old baby, Alfred E. Wise. In September Mr. Smith sent the parents of the child an autographed photograph of himself, accompanied by a cordial letter. He seemed pleased to see his namesake and expressed the hope that the youngster would become "a great man and a great politician."

Mr. Smith spent this afternoon on the Wilmington Island golf course of H. C. Walthour, nine miles distant.

EX-AFGHAN KING PLANS RETURNING TO REGAIN THRONE
Paris, January 24.—(P) Amanullah, Afghanistan's dethroned monarch, was believed in Afghan circles today to be marching on Kabul to deal with Habibullah Khan, who usurped the throne from Amanullah's brother, Inayatullah.

Amanullah recently withdrew his abdication and began to rally his supporters at Kandahar, whence he had fled when his throne tottered.

Reports that Nadir Khan, a relative of Amanullah, had been offered the throne as a compromise, were scouted. Afghan circles pointed out that Nadir was far from well and had always been a loyal supporter of Amanullah.

BIG GAME HUNTRESS GUILTY OF ASSAULT

New York, January 24.—(P) Mrs. Esther Evans Wilson, big game huntress and Washington society woman, today was convicted of assault in the second degree for shooting her husband, Dallett H. Wilson, lawyer and republican politician.

The jury in general sessions court deliberated one hour and seven minutes and when the verdict was returned Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., committed Mrs. Wilson to Jefferson Market women's prison for sentence Tuesday.

"Your verdict was in conformity with the facts and the law," the judge said as he discharged the jury. "The excuse that when a woman shoots and then forgets has been given too often in the past."

Mrs. Wilson had testified she did not remember the shooting. The jury recommended clemency and that the extreme penalty that can be imposed is five years imprisonment or a fine of $1,000 or both.

Mrs. Wilson was calm when the verdict was returned and when she was taken to the women's prison in a department of corrections van. She gripped a court rail nervously as the guilty verdict was pronounced, but later she appeared in good spirits and smiled broadly as she was escorted from the van into the prison.

Wilson, who was seriously wounded in his Fifth avenue office last March but has since recovered, was not in court. He had not attended since last Friday when the trial opened and he took the stand and insisted his wife had not intended to shoot him. He said the shooting was accidental.

MAN JUST BOOB, THINKS STYLE KING MUST ADORN SELF

Philadelphia, January 24.—Poor man, as Jesse Adler expresses it, has forgotten his own attractions and spent all his time and money in helping woman make herself beautiful. Adler, who is chairman of the men's style committee of the National Shoe Retailers' association, told the association's convention that men should now surround themselves with the style and color that are rightfully theirs. Man has handsome limbs, he argued, but no specific recommendations were made along this line.

Northeast Falls To Have Lawyer Reinstated in Case

Riverside, Calif., January 24.—(AP) Gordon Stewart Northcott today failed in his effort to have David Sokol reinstated as defense counsel in the trial for the murder of three boys. Judge George R. Freeman agreed, however, to permit Sokol to sit at the counsel table and act in an advisory capacity to Northcott, who several days ago discharged defense attorneys and became his own lawyer.

Ludowici, Ga., Couple Held For Poison Conspiracy

MRS. LULA DELK AND J. D. STAFFORD FACE CHARGES

Photos show Mrs. Lula Delk, of Ludowici, Ga., and (inset) J. D. Stafford, son of Liberty county sheriff, of Hinesville, charged with poisoning Stoney Delk, her husband, last September.

Ludowici, Ga., January 24.—(Special.)—Considerable interest is being taken here in the charges of murder against Mrs. Lula Delk, of this town, who is alleged to have conspired with J. D. Stafford, son of the sheriff of Liberty county, Georgia, in the poisoning of her husband, Stoney Delk, in September, last year. Mrs. Delk was placed under arrest last week after a will be discovered. A special session of the Liberty grand jury at that time made an investigation of the case and returned true bills against both Mrs. Delk and Stafford. The special probe followed their exonerated by a coroner's jury. At that time they were under arrest. Mrs. Delk was later released. Mrs. Delk left town. Stafford was rearrested and search was begun for Mrs. Delk. Stafford is now out under $5,000 bond.

Mrs. Delk's husband died mysteriously September 18, 1928. Two days after his death an autopsy revealed he had died of poisoning. Delk was not buried for several days because of stormy weather. Townspeople here became suspicious and rumors spread that Delk had not died a natural death. These rumors were based on the alleged intimacy between Mrs. Delk and Stafford, who is said to have been living at the Delk home. Both Mrs. Delk and Stafford were out on bond following the grand jury indictment. It was then that Mrs. Delk disappeared and was not found until her arrest last week at Jacksonville. The Delk-Stafford case will be tried during the coming term of the Long county superior court, scheduled to convene here the first week of March.

B. N. DUKE MEMORIAL INSTITUTE IS PLANNED

Project for Advancement of Knowledge Outlined by President Few.

Durham, N. C., January 24.—(AP)—The name of B. N. Duke, who will stand out prominently in the work of Duke university "so long as American civilization endures" through the establishment by the university of "the B. N. Duke Institute for the Advancement of Knowledge," it was declared by President W. P. Few today during the course of an address delivered at memorial services for the university's great patron and benefactor who died January 8. Plans for this institute, which was organized along lines different from any other, yet comparable to the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, and the Carnegie Institution of New York, were suggested by President Few and will make it the only one of its kind in the entire south. By affording scientists and scholars a center of research and investigation combined with the training of graduate students in their fields, this undertaking, it is believed will be a fitting permanent memorial to Mr. Duke who was a life-long patron of arts and letters and an advocate of the promotion of higher education during his 40 years connection with the university as a member of the board of trustees. The institute will be housed separately according to President Few. Trustees of the university have already set aside the contributions of Mr. Duke to the general endowment fund into a fund of separate nature known as the B. N. Duke endowment fund, and it is this large fund which may be made available for the B. N. Duke Institute for the advancement of knowledge it was explained by President Few. Announcement of this lasting and fitting memorial came from President Few following a glowing tribute to the life, service, and character of B. N. Duke during services in which the entire university participated.

An appeal for Atlanta Motor club members to oppose any increase in gasoline and automobile taxes will be made in resolutions to be presented at the meeting. In addition to going on record as opposed to any increase in this particular kind of special levy the members also will be asked to oppose any attempt to divert the funds thus raised to any use except the building and maintenance of roads.

ARMY SEARCHING FOR JAMES LONG TO PRESENT CROSS

James D. Long, a former enlisted man in the army air service, has been awarded the distinguished flying cross but the government cannot locate him to bestow the symbol of honor which has been conferred on Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd and only a few others of the nation's distinguished aviators. Lieutenant Colonel C. O. Thomas, Jr., recruiting officer for the Throver building, Saturday received orders from Washington to institute a search for Long in his territory. Long was awarded the cross on August 28 of last year for a flight from New York to Nome, Alaska and return, in which he was the sole aid to the pilot making the hop. Long enlisted in the army in 1917, serving with distinction through the war. He was discharged as a sergeant at Billings, Mont., in 1922 and has not been on the war department records since.

State Completes Cross-Examination Of Former Official

Frankfort, Ky., January 24.—(AP)—Cross-examination of William H. Shanks, former state auditor, on trial charged with misappropriating funds of the state to his own use, was completed today. Mr. Shanks explained that he had not paid his wife her salary by check, saying that they had a joint checking account before, during and after his term as auditor. The $1,000 difference in the salary paid her the first year of his term, when he said she was acting as his private secretary, and following years, was due to the fact that Mrs. Shanks had purchased from him some stock in the Rocky Mount Tobacco corporation, of Rocky Mount, N. C., for which she was paying him at the rate of $75 a month, the amount being deducted from her salary, he said. During the cross-examination Mr. Shanks answered "No" to the following questions: If Mrs. Shanks ever attended a business college? Whether she could take shorthand dictation and was a typist? Whether she had had experience previously in any of the state offices?

BEWARE THE COUGHS THAT FOLLOW FLU!

They May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritation. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritation, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately. (adv.)

Aviation enthusiasts and air-minded citizens generally will be disappointed to learn that the "Question Mark," famous army plane, will not stop over in Atlanta today, as was originally planned. "Solution" is an absolute necessity. In the fact, however, that the record-breaking ship probably will fly over the city this morning, probably in the neighborhood of 10 o'clock. Spending the night at Montgomery, the big Fokker is slated to take off on a non-stop hop to Washington about 8 o'clock this morning, weather permitting. The plane has encountered bad flying weather throughout the south and lost several days at Shreveport and Montgomery.

AIRPORT IMPROVEMENT IS VITAL, MOSES SAYS

Atlanta is blessed by nature in being ideally situated as the gateway to the southeast, but in order to insure her position as a leading city in national as well as international aviation, the immediate development of airports here and in neighboring cities is an absolute necessity. That was the statement given out Friday by Captain Stanford E. Moses, United States navy, retired, who is an aeronautical expert and the southern representative of the American Airports corporation, having recently come to Atlanta from California. "No one can foresee the future developments of airplanes and air-plane motors," he stated, "but no matter what these may be, adequate airport facilities will be vital and no city without them can hope to maintain a leading position as an aviation center."

Several Airports Needed
Captain Moses stated that Atlanta needed not one but several airports, others in the vicinity acting as feeders, and said that the sooner these were developed, the better the chances were to assume a position of even international importance. He pointed out that two important air lanes at the present time pass through Atlanta going south and that unless the proper airport developments are made here, future southern travel may take the coast route. Captain Moses is particularly interested in the development of courses in aeronautical engineering and dynamics at the Georgia School of Technology, University of Georgia, Emory and Oglethorpe, and even at Agnes Scott. "Women are coming into aviation more and more," he said, "there is hardly a single flying school on the west coast without women pupils." He said that he intended to take the matter up with the Tech authorities in the near future.

Southern Company Considered
Formation of a southern corporation to be affiliated with the American Airports corporation of New York is being considered by Captain Moses with a view of developing airports throughout the entire southeast. The American Airports corporation is an organization composed of business men, aviation experts, architects and engineers and its services include the planning and organization of airports, designing and supervision of construction.

Major Tien Lai-Huang, Chinese aviator, who is making a lecture of the United States was in Atlanta again Friday, following a trip to Rome, and was a guest at the luncheon meeting of the local Junior chamber of commerce. Major Tien stated that his plans for his projected east to west flight from California to his native land were progressing rapidly and that he hopes to make the hop some time this summer. The long flight will be preceded, he said, by an aerial journey from New York to San Francisco for the purpose of testing his plane, which, he said, will be a Fokker. The Oriental aviator is a graduate of Pekin college and Syracuse university. He leaves today for Miami, to continue his lecture tour.

ion, and managing with view to obtaining the advantages to be derived from operation in conjunction with other airports. Captain Moses is to address the Civitan Club at their luncheon next Tuesday.

WORLD COURT JUSTICE TO SPEAK IN ATLANTA

Judge Antonio S. De Bustamante Accepts Invitation To Address Citizenship Meet.

Judge Antonio S. De Bustamante of Havana, one of the 18 justices of the world court, has accepted an invitation to address the second annual southeastern citizenship conference at Emory university here February 12-14. Director Cullen B. Gosnell announced Thursday.

Judge De Bustamante's acceptance was announced in a cable to President Harvey W. Cox, of Emory. He probably will arrive here on the opening day of the conference and plans are being made for a welcome by city officials.

His main address will be on the first night of the conference on "World Court." He will speak at the annual banquet February 14 and will conduct round-table discussions each day.

The purpose of the conference is to stimulate a wider and more intelligent interest in public affairs. Problems of a national, international and local character are discussed. More than 400 persons attended the conference last year and indications point to a much larger attendance for the second session.

In addition to Judge De Bustamante, numerous other nationally known speakers are listed on the lecture staff.

15,000 VISITORS
SAW ART EXHIBIT AT ATLANTA STORE

Fifteen thousand persons visited the second annual exhibit of Georgia art sponsored by the Division-Paxon company on its sixth floor, closing Thursday. It was announced by officials of the Peachtree street department store.

The exhibit was open for 10 days and was featured by the showing of over 500 high-type pieces of work by native Georgia artists. Nine prizes of $50 each were awarded winners in the various competitive departments.

"The fact that 15,000 persons showed sufficient interest in home art to visit the exhibit and enjoy its many beautiful and delightful pieces," store officials stated, "more than justified our belief that there is a deep and widespread appreciation in Georgia for things artistic. We are delighted to have been privileged to aid so splendid an exhibit."

Miss Lucille McGinnis
Made Administratrix
For Mrs. Donaldson

Miss Lucille McGinnis, administratrix for the estate of the late Bert Donaldson, was appointed guardian for the person and property of Mrs. Donaldson Thursday in an order signed by Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, Fulton county ordinary. Appointment of a guardian for the widow of the former attaché of the Soviet Union's office was decided upon Wednesday by a commission appointed on the complaint filed by Houston White, son of the late Woods White. Woods White was the original administrator of Donaldson's estate and was succeeded on his death by Miss McGinnis.

William Schley Howard, attorney for Mrs. Donaldson, Thursday filed notice on Judge Jeffries of an appeal to superior court. Mr. Howard seeking to set aside the commission's findings that Mrs. Donaldson is of unsound mind and incompetent to manage her own affairs.

The slaying of Bert Donaldson in a local hotel room several years ago has never been solved. Donaldson arose to prominence through his investigation of a bureau ring.

Jewish Christian Preacher Tells Of Russian Work

Arrested so often he does not recall the number of times and finally marked for death by agents of the Russian bolshevik regime for his religious activities among the Jews, are some of the experiences related by Rev. Peter Gorodish, of Poland, speaker at the Jewish Christian conference at the Atlanta Gospel tabernacle, at services every day this week.

This was in 1919 and Rev. Gorodish was preaching at Kiev. Fearing to remain longer and afraid to return to Poland because of Jewish persecutions in his own country, he fled to England. Later, when conditions seemed more composed in Russia, he returned to Kiev in disguise and succeeded, he said, in concealing his identity from bolshevik authorities while resuming religious work among the people of his race.

Under the new Polish government, Rev. Gorodish returned to Poland, where the existing government guarantees religious freedom. "Poland is like a land raised from the dead," the leader asserted. He is now engaged in translation of the New Testament into Yiddish tongue of the Jews of Poland. In his native land Rev. Gorodish is called the "Apostle of Poland." Using an automobile fitted up as a gospel van, he and his associates travel throughout the country. The car serves as transportation, a place to lodge and as a pulpit. The unit of value in Poland is the "zloty," equivalent to a gold franc—19.3 cents.

HADEN SEES INDUSTRY GAINS AS AID TO FARMS

Local Capitalist Discusses Agricultural Problem Before City Club.

Rehabilitation of small town industries to provide year-round employment and steady wages is being needed to restore Georgia agriculture to its former prominent place, Charles J. Haden, capitalist, said Thursday noon in an address before the City Club of Atlanta. Mr. Haden spoke in the place of James A. Holloman, associate editor of The Constitution, who is confined to the Georgia hospital because of injuries he suffered in a fall Tuesday night.

"The manufacturing concerns in the small cities and towns are being driven to the wall by the competition of the big plants of the north," Mr. Haden said. "If these manufacturers could provide employment the year round their payrolls would go for the farm products raised in the vicinity of each town and there would be no doubt of the resultant prosperity."

He emphasized that Georgia is drained of its money to pay for products shipped in from a distance and which could be produced at actual cost within the state. The "dollar," which goes farthest in the dollar that stays at home," and that it was the patriotic duty of every Georgian to do his part to stimulate home production and to spend their money at home.

Mr. Haden stated that although moved north were high, the fact that they were unduly stressed as makers of prosperity and in support of his statement he said that the great industrial south, North Carolina, between Charlotte and Greensboro, including the tobacco centers of that state, were rich and prosperous before a square foot of land was done and before the automobile had come into being. And that Georgia had sometimes suffered at the hands of propagandists for paved highways by unfair criticism in their excessive zeal.

Miss Nellie Landrum, C. S., was named second reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Louisville Publisher
And Guests Arrested
On Hunting Charge

Albany, Ga., January 24.—(AP)—Charges made by game wardens against Judge Robert W. Bingham, Louisville, and four guests at the Louisville hotel, and four guests at the Pine Island hunting lodge that they shot doves in a baited field were characterized today by the publisher's counsel as without basis.

A statement issued here by W. H. Burt, Albany attorney, said that Judge Bingham had been told that he and his party had violated any law, but had accused the two game wardens who arrested them of going beyond their jurisdiction in Baker county, where the lodge is located, when they were officers of Dougherty county.

When the officers appeared, Burt said, Judge Bingham and his friends were shooting on his private game preserve, none of which is a baited field. The attorney insisted that the preserve are planted in feedstuffs for birds but not baited.

The cases were immediately placed before the Baker county jury, which returned indictments against Judge Bingham and his guests, Emanuel Levi, general manager of the Courier-Journal, L. E. Callahan, Chicago capitalist; Herbert Fishel, of Washington, Ind., a dog trainer, and Schley Perry, general manager of the Pine Island preserve. The latter also is a deputy game warden of Baker county.

All five posted bond of $100 each pending trial, which was set tentatively for some time this week. There was no preliminary arraignment.

CATHCART COMPANY WILL EXPAND PLANT

The Cathcart Van and Storage company, veteran Atlanta company on Houston street, will expand its space and facilities during February by occupying the big garage and storage addition now in course of construction adjoining the present plant. This announcement was made Thursday by T. F. Cathcart, head of the company, who stated that the new addition, begun recently, represents an investment of about $25,000.

The new building is located on a lot 50 feet on Houston street and extending back 200 feet to the present plant, affording the addition of 10,000 square feet of space. It will enable the company to center all its activities under one roof and will also supply space for storage of the big vans operated by Cathcart.

FLORIDA A.M.E. CHURCH CONFERENCE CONTINUES

Ocala, Fla., January 24.—(Special)—The second day session of the middle south Florida conference of the A. M. E. church, holding daily sessions in the First A. M. E. church, this city, is making great headway. Bishop A. S. Flipper, D. D., L. L. D., is presiding, and is expediting the business of the conference. Financial reports completed and pastors making clear reports on the spiritual, numerical and educational progress of their charges, monopolized a greater part of two days' session.

The annual sermon by Rev. T. D. Davis, retired favorable comment by the body. The educational briefs fore-shadowed a larger appropriation to Edward Waters college and the seminary work, by the conferences of the eleventh Episcopal district, than ever before, it is said.

The missionary work of the state of Florida, heretofore, has been connected with the Parent Mite society, with the northern branch. From present comments, this conference of missionary workers, like others of the state, will fall in the column of the southern division of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society during the sessions of this conference, it is said.

The missionary sermon will be delivered tonight by the Rev. S. H. Hunter.

The reports on the state of the church and the state of the country was submitted today by Revs. E. B. Daniels and L. S. Sanders. Large and enthusiastic crowds visit sessions daily.

200-Gallon Still Found in House; Three Men Held

Bonds totaling $1,600 were assessed by U. S. Commissioner Griffith Friday in the cases of William H. Smith, Robert Holmes and Robert B. Baker, who were taken into custody late Thursday following a raid on a house on Vienna road which disclosed one of the largest indoor stills ever found in this section.

Smith's bond was placed at $1,000 while Baker and Holmes were placed under bonds of $300 each. In addition, all three defendants are under bond of $1,000 in state court, according to the report submitted by agents to Deputy Prohibition Administrator H. P. Wright.

This report stated that the raid was undertaken following the receipt of a "tip" that liquor was being manufactured at the house, which is located about eight miles from Atlanta, near the Minnehaha mill. County Officers Patrick, Butler, Webb, Cates and Ragdale surrounded the place, it was said, and when federal officers approached the front door the three defendants tried to make their escape by the rear, only to be seized by the waiting county agents.

In the basement there was found a complete distilling apparatus, consisting of one 120-gallon still, one 60-gallon thumper barrels, one copper worm, 24 fermenters, 1-2000 gallons of beer, 100 empty one-gallon tin cans and a large quantity of corks, the agents report said, while on the ground floor there was a three-horsepower upright boiler connected with the still below. The house was said to be meagerly furnished, with a secret entrance to the basement through a hole cut in a built-in window seat. The still was said to have a capacity of 200 gallons a day and was valued at $500.

In addition to the county officers, those taking part in the raid were U. S. Marshal L. Crawford, Deputy Marshal A. C. Sowell, and Federal Prohibition Agents F. B. Clark and J. B. Wallace.

The Rev. R. C. Long, secretary of the stewardship council of the Southern Presbyterian church, said an announcement would be made in New York regarding Southern Presbyterians with greater per capita gifts in 1928 than other denominations in the united stewardship council.

The Southern secretary added that Dr. Harry S. Myers, secretary of the united council, would announce total gifts for all purposes for the 25 denominations in the council as $522,368,714.84. This indicated an average per capita of the 25,267,707 members of the constituent denominations of $20.29.

The Rev. Mr. Long said the Southern Presbyterians church, with a membership of 444,657, gave $10.41 per capita for budget benevolences, $12.40 per capita for all benevolences, and $23.18 to current expenses, a per capita gift of $35.98 to all purposes. ## Einstein's Newest Theory Gives Science Missing Link, N. Y. U. Professor Asserts

Attempt To Insulate Ourselves From Force of Gravitation Now Possible, Says Sheldon.

New York, January 24.—(AP)—The most fascinating field of experiment that could be opened to man lies beyond Einstein's new theory that electricity and magnetism are related to gravitation, says Dr. H. E. Sheldon, head of the department of physics of New York university.

"Such things," said Dr. Sheldon, "as keeping airplanes aloft without engines or material support, as stepping out of a window into the air without fear of falling, or of making a trip to the moon, as far as his distance of gravitation is concerned, are avenues of investigation suggested by this theory."

"For it gives us the one link that has been missing in our theories of relations of electricity, heat, energy, light, space, time, gravitation and matter. If it stands up as a proof that electricity and gravitation are virtually the same, we can attempt at last to insulate ourselves from the force of gravitation. We know how to insulate ourselves against electrical currents, and perhaps as we learn more, the day will come when it is no more unbelievable than we can insulate against gravitation than against the equally intangible effects of electricity."

"I have on my desk is a striking illustration of the possibilities. It is a bar of permalloy, an alloy recently produced in the Bell Telephone laboratories here, and its new property is unusual sensitivity to magnetism. I place it above another magnet. See, it remains suspended seemingly by air alone, an inch above the magnet on my desk. Thus far this force of magnetism is the only means we have found experimentally of balancing the force of gravitation. Now Einstein comes with a mathematical law which shows a relation between magnetism and gravitation, that we were not sure about heretofore, and gives us a new theoretical tool with which to work."

"It sounds incredible to speak of insulating ourselves from gravitation, yet the idea is perhaps not much more incredible than were those in some of the previous steps that one by one have linked together the tangible things such as iron bars, to the intangibles such as electricity and force, and upon which all our useful inventions are built."

"The first step was realizing that light and heat are related. That came early in the history of mankind. The others all are recent. As the second step Jules and Rutherford showed that heat and energy (energy being another word for work) are related definitely by physical laws. That idea was almost wholly incredible for a time. Though now all our engines are based upon that law. One by one were shown the inter-relations of light, heat, energy, matter, space, time, gravitation and electricity, until the only factor missing was the specific relation between electricity and gravitation. This is what Einstein has given us."

SAYS GEORGIA WILL BE CENTER FOR WOOD PULP

Athens, Ga., January 24.—(AP)—Georgia is destined to become an important center for wood pulp products, H. M. Lufburrow, state forester, predicted here today at the farmers' week and marketing conference at the state college of agriculture.

Cellulose, pulp and rayon industries are expanding rapidly. Georgia with approximately 23,000,000 acres of land suited to forestry, favorable climate, soil and rainfall, the start already made in the lumber industry, is certain to become an important one.

Sixty-five Georgia counties are producing naval stores products, he said, furnishing employment for 12,000 workers and returning an income of approximately $22,000,000 annually.

Dupree Barrett, extension forester of the college, stressed the importance of the wood and persimmon trees in the manufacture of shingles and said north Georgia was particularly suited for growing these trees. The lobby pine of central and north Georgia was described as five times more productive in cellulose than fir trees of eastern states.

E. W. Hill, of the department of agriculture, told the conference members of boys' cotton clubs in Georgia whose works, under supervision of the extension division of the agriculture college, produced 400 pounds of lint per acre in 1927 compared with 151 pounds of lint per acre by adult farmers in the same territory.

Discussing extension work in the United States Mr. Hill said it was begun in 1903 with an appropriation of $27,314 and last year $29,000,000 was appropriated for this service, which now employs 54,000 trained men and women.

Hal M. Stanley, commissioner of labor and secretary of the Georgia Press association, praised the work of the agriculture college. He said weekly newspaper editors, by publishing informative articles on farm products particularly adaptable and grown in different counties, could do much toward educating farmers in proper methods of cultivation, fertilization and insect control.

$61,010.35 PAID STATE SERVICE BOARD

Georgia Commission Now Has Balance of $24,326.47, Auditor Reports.

The Georgia public service commission collected $61,010.35 in fees from public service companies in the state during 1928, according to the annual audit of the department made public Thursday by Sam J. Slate.

With a balance on hand on January 1, 1928, of $20,680.30, and with total receipts of $61,010.35, a balance of $81,690.65, a balance of $24,326.47 was in banks and the state treasury to the credit of the commission on December 31, 1928.

The fees collected for the maintenance of the commission, under the law, and are fixed and collected by the comptroller general.

Expenditures during the year included salaries of $28,691.94; wages of $1,367.08; traveling expenses of $4,327.21; engineering services of $6,088.51; legal services of $1,200 and other minor items.

Fees collected during the year included $50,427.56 for 1928 and prior years, and $4,582.79 in prepayments of 1929 fees.

In submitting the report, State Auditor Slate highly praised the bookkeeping and auditing methods of the commission, saying in his preliminary comment:

"The books of the commission are neatly and accurately kept and disbursements are supported by proper vouchers. The commission has an auditing committee which examines and approves all expenditures each quarter, which is very commendable."

Salaries paid members of the commission and its officers, as fixed by law, include the following:

Chairman, $5,000 per year; four commissioners, $3,000 each; rate expert, $6,500; attorney, $4,000 and secretary $3,600.

JAYCEES WILL HOLD HEALTH EXPOSITION

A health exposition, under auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held at the auditorium during the week of April 8, in connection with a "Better Health" educational campaign to be carried on by this organization in the spring, it was announced Thursday at the weekly luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Pointing out that the span of life has been increased ten years in the last half century, President Woody stated that it was possible to lengthen this by 15 per cent more provided the knowledge given the world by the medical profession is put to use.

"This in brief," he stated, "is the purpose of the good health movement: to place desirable and authentic information along this line within the reach of everyone and to seek to encourage its application by every man, woman and child in Georgia."

The movement has the sanction and support of the Fulton County Medical society, it was stated, and special committees of the junior chamber will assist in arranging the exhibits.

Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, well known Atlanta minister, was the principal speaker of the occasion, while the musical portion of the program was provided by Chester Parham on the saxophone, accompanied by Marion Beecham at the piano, Miss Dixie Duncan, Follies star, did several specialty dance numbers.

Guests for the occasion included W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High school and three members of its championship football team, Harold Davis, Buster Scott and Red Hunt.

Asthma Made His Life a Burden

Found Way to Conquer Trouble. Has Been Well Ever Since.

Sufferers from asthma and stubborn bronchial coughs will find unusual interest in a letter written by Jos. Thompson, 935 Tibbs Ave., Indianapolis, Ind. He says:

"I have asthma 7 years and a severe bronchial cough 12 years. My wheeze and cough kept me awake most of the night and even my neighbors awake. Finally a relative who had been benefited by Nacor got me to try it. I was confined to my bed at the time, but before I had finished one bottle I was able to go outdoors. I improved steadily and now feel fine. Have had no cough and no asthma for over a year. Am sleeping fine all night, and I am working every day, although I am 57 years old."

Amazing as this letter may be to sufferers from asthma, bronchitis and severe chronic coughs, there are many other such statements from people who never expected to be well again. The letter and a book of valuable information about these stubborn diseases will be sent free by the Nacor Medicine Co., 619 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. Write for it today. The sensation of the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

HOTEL BONDHOLDERS SUE ADAIR TRUSTEES

Judgments Totalling $97,700
Sought by 115 Investors in Young Hotel Project.

Petition for judgments in the amount of $97,700 against officers and trustees of the Adair Realty and Trust company, because of alleged false and fraudulent representations and alleged misappropriation of the proceeds of the sale of bonds for the Young Hotel project, was filed Thursday in Fulton superior court by 115 of the Young hotel bondholders.

The suit names as defendants: Forrest Adair, Sr., Forrest Adair, Jr., Frank Adair, Jr., David H. Strauss, Asa G. Candler, Jr., H. C. Worthen and W. L. Stanley, officers and trustees of the Adair Realty and Trust company.

The Adair company underwrote the bond issue of $725,000 for the hotel company, and security for the bonds was to consist mainly of the hotel building, the petition recites. The Adair company utterly failed to live up in good faith to its undertaking and agreements, and misappropriated the proceeds of the bond issue, or practically all of the proceeds, the petition charges.

The plaintiffs allege that the sale of bonds began in September of 1926 and continued until about March 1927, and that during that time the Adair company was insolvent. The petition charges that it was not true as represented by the Adair firm that the bonds could be insured with an insurance company, the completion of the hotel was insured.

Dissipated Funds, Charge.

Charging that Frank Adair, Forrest Adair, Jr., and Edwin used the bond funds for their own profit in connection with their own enterprises, the petition alleged that the trustees had taken no steps to prevent dissipation of the funds, and that the bondholders were induced to part with their money and invest in the bonds by alleged false and fraudulent representations and misappropriation of the proceeds of the bond issue.

The Adair Realty and Trust company was placed in bankruptcy some time ago, and, following investigation by postal inspectors, Forrest Adair, Sr., Forrest Adair, Jr., Frank Adair and E. A. Erwin, officers of the company, were indicted and placed on trial at Gainesville on charges of using the funds to defraud. All four of the defendants were acquitted.

The bondholders' petition was filed by Lee Miles and Branch and Howard.

ALMOST NERVOUS WRECK, THEN SHE FOUND SARGON

"I Now Rejoice That I
Took the Advice of My Friend Who Urged Me
To Take Sargon," Says
Mrs. Lewter.

"I was just about as near being a nervous wreck as anyone could be. My kidneys were badly out of order, and at times the pains across my back were so intense I could hardly bear them. Severe attacks of headaches came on me frequently. I was dreadfully nervous and often lay awake half the night wondering if there was any medicine on earth that would help me.

MRS. KNOX B. LEWTER.

"I was troubled with indigestion and was constipated nearly all the time. I was continually taking calomel and other medicines, but they only gave temporary relief. I really believed they did me more harm than good. I sometimes had severe cramps in my stomach.

"I now rejoice that I took the advice of a good friend of mine, who urged me to take Sargon, for this wonderful medicine has made me like a different woman. My nerves are just like they were when I was a girl. My sleep is sound and restful. I have a splendid appetite and am never troubled in the least with indigestion or other distress. My strength has returned and I am more energetic than I have been in years.

"I consider Sargon Soft Mass Pills just as wonderful as Sargon. They have overcome my constipation in an easy and natural manner. They are wholly different from any other laxative I ever took, because they do not gripe or sicken in the least. I believe they have had a lot to do with my recovery.

"My friends all see the wonderful change that the Sargon treatment has brought in me."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Knox B. Lewter, well-known and highly esteemed Memphis resident, living at 1002 Jackson St., that city.

Scores of people are calling daily at Jacobs' main store, 6 and 8 Marietta St., where a special representative of the Sargon laboratories has established headquarters and is explaining the merits of the celebrated medicines, Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills, which may also be obtained at the other Jacobs stores all over Atlanta.—(adv.)

TRAVELERS' AID OPENS PUBLIC MEMBERSHIPS

On the theory that the welfare work of the Travelers' Aid society, with its protection for the confused, the unfortunate, the ignorant wayfarer, is a human service which merits everybody's interest and moral support, the society has undertaken to open its membership to the general public according to announcement Thursday.

A membership of this kind, it was explained, is established not for financial support but to enlist the public in the society's program, and is arranged with permission and endorsement of the Community Chest, of which the Travelers' Aid society is an agency. A nominal membership fee of $1 is charged.

"The work of the Travelers' Aid society is an outstanding feature of the welfare service of the Community Chest," said the announcement by the society's executives. "It cares for the unattended and confused traveler. Addressed of persons who lost their tickets, lost money, who are not met at trains, miss connections, who are ignorant of the city, deserted, sick, or suffering from physical disability, mothers traveling alone, runaway boys, foreigners unable to speak English, find in the society a friend to give shelter and aid."

The December report of the society shows that 1,993 persons were assisted, of whom five were immigrants, at railway, interurban, and bus stations. Among the varied services, ten persons were given medical treatment, one a mental examination; financial relief given 39; legal aid secured for two through another agency of the Chest; employment secured for two; through still another Chest society; six young persons were returned home; 219 were placed in contact with relatives; 592 were placed on route safely, and many other kinds of service performed.

Mrs. J. W. Payne is the executive of the Travelers' Aid society, and other officers for 1929 were announced yesterday as follows: Mrs. W. H. Harris, president; Mrs. J. H. ## In Polo Rules

B. U. S. Board

Rest Period Lengthened at Halves; Protest Right Is Given Only to Captain.

New York, January 24.—(P)—Several changes in the rules of polo, most of them designed to clarify the wording of the rules, have been approved by the executive committee of the United States Polo association and will be effective immediately.

Perhaps the most important is in general rule No. 5, section B, which has been shortened to read: "Captains have the sole right to discuss with the umpire questions arising during the game." A reference to the right to enter protests with the referee is eliminated.

Another change allows for a half time rest period of eight minutes between the fourth and fifth periods of a game.

Field rule No. 16, section F, has been altered to allow a greater margin of safety when one player enters the line of the ball in front of another. He is permitted to do so only when it "does not involve the possibility of a collision or danger to either player." Other changes in the field rules make it clear that the umpire must put the ball in play by bowling it "underhand and hard."

Rains Hindrance

At Big Dog Trials

Grand Junction, Tenn., January 24. (P)—Intermittent rains proved a serious handicap to the four dogs from the east in the national championship bird dog field trials, the quartet finding fewer quail than on any of the previous three days of running of the stake.

The setter, Tom Coffe, owned by D. H. Robey, of Indianapolis and handled by Roy Carr, of LaGrange, Ky., ran against Lolo M. Gibson, a pointer belonging to L. D. Johnson, of Evansville, Ind., both dogs showing poor form. Tom Coffe managed to find four quail, but interspersed with these were nine false finds which counted heavily against him. Lolo's Mr. Gibson found only two bevies and one single.

The afternoon brace found Junedale Allie, a pointer, owned by Dr. F. H. Lahay, of Boston, pitted against the pointer, Ferris Lady Binkins, belonging to Miss Claudia Phelps, of Aiken, S. C. The former found five bevies and a single, the best work of the day, while the latter participated in only one brace.

Three pointers and a setter are scheduled for tomorrow's casts.

London, January 24.—(AP)—The general council of the trades union congress yesterday condemned as cruel and tragic the march of the unemployed which started from Glasgow yesterday and which is designed ultimately to reach London. Communist leaders addressed the men before they began their long hike.

A second contingent is being organized at Newcastle and is to take the road from that town on Monday. It was also said that groups would be assembled later at Sheffield, Chester, Plymouth, Manchester, Birmingham Nottingham and Derby. All these marchers, according to the plan, are to converge upon the outskirts of London.

The statement of the congress pointed out that the undertaking would entail great hardship in bad weather on men who were already suffering from the effects of long unemployment.

HARRIS BILL CURBS CHAIN NEWSPAPERS

Would Deny Mailing Privileges To Newly Established Journals.

Washington, D. C., January 24.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, today introduced in the upper chamber a bill denying second-class mailing privileges to any daily newspaper, which may be started in the future under chain ownership. Present chain newspapers already established and published would not be affected by the proposed legislation.

Explaining the purpose of the measure, Senator Harris said he was seeking to restrict the operations of chain newspaper publishers who are permitted to extend their influence to states and districts in which they have no local interest. Denial of second-class mailing privileges would severely handicap future operations of the kind.

His bill, which follows, was introduced under the caption, "To Deny Second-Class Mailing Privileges to Newspapers Under Common Ownership."

"That more than one daily newspaper under common ownership shall not be entitled to second-class mailing privileges; except that this prohibition shall not apply in the case of newspapers under common ownership prior to the date of the application of the bill, and in the case of newspapers under common ownership, there is no change of ownership. Two newspapers shall be held to be under common ownership if they are owned wholly or partially by (1) by the same individual or corporation, or (2) by persons who are members of the same family or partnership, or (3) by corporations or other entities, one of which is owned directly or indirectly by the owners of the controlling interest of the other, or (4) by a corporation and the owners, directly or indirectly, of the controlling interest thereof."

Clarke Court-Martial Awaits Sanity Report From Federal Office

Columbus, Ga., January 24.—(AP)—Trial by court-martial of Captain John M. Clarke at Fort Benning, Ga., is being held in pending decisions from Walter Reed hospital in Washington as to his sanity.

Captain Clarke is under charges of misappropriating government property worth "several thousands of dollars," a sequel to a two-year stay at Camp McLeeland in Alabama. When accused of making away with excess war materials stored there in 1927, a plea of insanity was entered in trial by court-martial, and the officer ordered sent to Washington for six months' observation.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE NIBBLERS HAVE A SHOCK.
By Thornton W. Burgess.

Even when there seems to be no need, Watch out, and signs of danger heed.

—Nibbler the Mouse.

Nibbler the House Mouse, together with Mrs. Nibbler and several of their children, had moved from Farmer Brown's house out to Farmer Brown's barn early in the winter. There had been a season. Indeed, there had been several seasons. One of these seasons was Black Pussy the Cat. The other seasons were traps. At first, there had been only one or two traps and it was easy to keep away from them. But more and more traps had been set and every other day one of the children had been moved to the barn. There were a little to worry about excepting Black Pussy and it wasn't difficult to keep out of her way. To be sure, there was Robber the Rat, who wouldn't hesitate to dine on a family of young mice, if he could find them. But the barn was so big that it was easy to keep out of the way of Robber.

No ever since early winter the Nibblers had been living very happy and comfortably. They did make the cake and bread and bits of cheese and other goodies such as they used to find in Mother Brown's pantry. But, as little Mrs. Nibbler said, "We have plenty of good, plain food, so why should we worry? After all, it is the plain things of life that are the best. Simple, plain food makes healthy mice."

No, though the children sometimes turned up their noses at clover and grass seeds, oats, wheat, corn and meal, there was very little complaining and the Nibbler family was thriving. No long had it been since there was any serious danger that all of the Nibblers had grown careless. Even Nibbler himself had grown careless. Black Pussy didn't spend much time in the barn, and when she was there it was an easy matter to keep an eye on her. It was only the most careless of mice who ever was surprised and caught by Black Pussy. By this time the Nibblers numbered several families. Mr. and Mrs. Nibbler believe in having plenty of children and having them often. No sooner is one set of children out of the way than another set is born. So Nibbler and Mrs. Nibbler had become great-grandparents since they came out to the barn. You see, their children and their children's children had families of their own. Then, just at dusk, a dreadful thing happened. Nibbler had just met his eldest son. The latter was on his way over to the grain bin. Nibbler had just come from there. Nibbler turned and watched his oldest son run out on the barn floor. He has just reached the grain bin when he was seized and carried away. Just who had seized him, Nibbler didn't know. No, sir, Nibbler didn't know.

"It wasn't Black Pussy," explained Nibbler to Mrs. Nibbler, when he got home with the sad news. "No, it wasn't Black Pussy. I couldn't see just who it was. Whoever it was, seemed to come from out of the air. I was too surprised and shocked to really see my eyes."

In no time at all, the dreadful news went all through the big barn and

There was a great quaking as the Nibbler families talked it over. That very same night another mouse was caught. As before, no one seemed to know just how it was done, or who it was that did it. But it was clear that there was an enemy in the barn and all the Nibblers became very much excited and nervous and frightened.

The next day three mice were mysteriously caught. This was getting serious. Nibbler called together all the other grown members of his family and they talked it all over. But as yet no one had discovered who it might be Shadow the Weasel. Some thought it might be Billy Mink. None guessed who it really was.

The Baffle Stories

The Duvenant Kidnaping Case
NUMBER 21

When Richard Duvenant brought suit for divorce against his wife, the former Dorothy Willington, in 1924, naming as co-defendant an Italian count, the New York tabloids added materially to their circulation. It will be remembered that Duvenant won his suit and received from the court, the custody of the two children, Fletcher, 8, and Jonathan, 4, in spite of their mother's frantic battle to keep at least one of them. This was in May, 1924. The aftermath of the suit, the kidnaping of Jonathan, the younger child, came two months later. Since news of the kidnaping has never yet been published, and since the affair involved a remarkable piece of deduction by one of the Duvenant private detectives, the details are here recounted for the first time.

After the divorce Duvenant retained his magnificent estate in the Orange mountains of New Jersey, commuting daily to his Wall street office. Early in the afternoon of July 14 he received a telephone call from Thelma Lansen, Swedish governess to his children, who was in charge of them at the New Jersey estate. She was almost incoherent in her terrified announcement that the two boys had both disappeared while playing in the grounds of the estate twenty minutes before. Chanfleur, gardener, and all other servants were engaged in a frantic search of the countryside. Duvenant ordered that the police be notified and said that he was starting home at once. He then telephoned to the Norcross Detective agency, of Newark, N. J., five miles from his estate, and requested that operatives be rushed to his home by automobile. Duvenant reached home a little after three and found John Norcross himself already in charge of the investigation on the grounds. Fletcher, the older boy, had been found by the gardener, but Jonathan, his mother's favorite, was missing. Fletcher told the following story.

He and Jonathan had been playing Indians, and he was hiding in ambush in the toolhouse while Jonathan was to ride up on his velocipede and be attacked and scalped. He had waited a long time in the back of the toolhouse, from which point he could see nothing outside, and when Jackie of the extensive lawn of the estate, the same "little blue gate," in fact which had figured so prominently in the tabloid accounts of the Duvenant divorce trial. Deep in the thick bushes to the left of the gate Jonathan's velocipede was found. The footprints of a woman and the footprints of Jonathan leading out of the little gate were found. The gate on which the Duvenant estate backed was locked. On the soft dirt road were found the clearly defined tire impressions of a large automobile. There could be no doubt that Jonathan had been persuaded into the automobile and that it had disappeared, bearing him away. Neither could there be any doubt in Duvenant's mind that his divorced wife had done the deed. Whoever had fetched the child had had a key to the Yale lock which prevented the casual by-passer from opening the gate. White with anger, Duvenant swore to pursue the kidnaper and retrieve the child. His magnificent Fiat car was prepared for the pursuit. But which way had the kidnaper gone, north or south? The road along which the car had traveled ran up a fairly steep slope for 200 yards to the little blue gate, and then ran level. Detective Norcross and Duvenant inspected the tire tracks closely. Duvenant said that there was nothing to tell whether the kidnaper car had approached from the south and gone north, or vice versa, for the track passed without turning.

This point happened to be of the greatest importance, for the road led north-south to New York and south to Philadelphia. It was a Friday and Duvenant feared that his former wife might be planning to leave the country that night by one of the Friday midnight steamers from New York. A southward journey, on the other hand, probably meant a journey to her father's estate in southern New Jersey, where concealment of the child would be easy.

In either case, to head off or overtake the kidnappers was highly desirable in order to avoid recourse to the law. Which way had the car gone—north or south?

Detective Norcross rose to the occasion and deduced it from an exam-

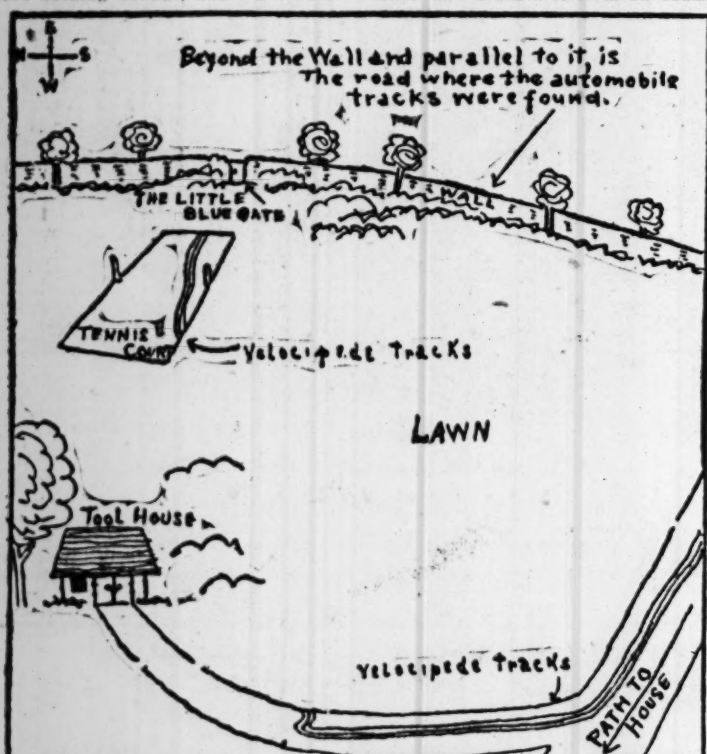

Diagram of the back lawn of the Duvenant estate and close-ups of tire impressions on the road.

did not arrive to be scalped he had tired of the game and gone to open the door. He found it locked. The toolhouse locked with a padlock on the outside. Fletcher thought that the little chap had locked him in for a joke, and, therefore, made no noise for some minutes, pretending that he did not care in order that Jackie would be disappointed. But in a few minutes he had grown impatient and had waited and kicked on the door. After what must have been 20 minutes, his screams were heard by the gardener, who was passing, and he was released.

Duvenant and Detective Norcross found the wheel tracks of Jonathan's velocipede across the tennis court, as shown on the diagram herewith. The trail led to the gate at the back of the out of court.

He understood that the matter was settled.

The questions to be answered are:

1. In which direction did the kidnaper's car depart from the little blue gate—to the north or to the south?

2. What proved the direction taken by the car?

Note: The solution to the above problem is printed herewith upside down, so that the reader will be enabled to follow his own ideas and make his own deductions, before referring to the published answer.

STATUS OF ALSACE UP IN FRENCH CHAMBER

Socialist Deputy Urges Separation of Church and State.

Paris, January 24.—(AP)—The problem of the relationship of the recovered province of Alsace with the central French government in Paris came up for discussion in the chamber of deputies today.

The debate began with an address by an Alsatian socialist deputy, M. Grumbach, who spoke in favor of the socialist and radical party Thesis that Alsace, like the rest of France, should accept the law of separation of church and state adopted in France while Alsace was part of Germany.

Alsatian Catholics have been asking exemption from the laws by which religious instruction is excluded from the public schools and have demanded that they be allowed to continue their old regime of a state supported church which still existed throughout France when Alsace-Lorraine was annexed by Germany. It continued to exist after the annexation and after the return of the provinces to France until 1924 when Edouard Herriot, then premier, decided to apply the law for separation of church and state.

Today's discussion took the aspect of a party conflict from the beginning. The socialists contended that Alsace ought to accept all French laws adopted while the province was under the Berlin government, while the conservatives put forward the idea that the recovered province ought to be given time to adapt itself to laws enacted while it was not a part of France.

Premier Poincaré intervened briefly in the debate to point out that the French government recognized that mistakes had been made in arranging the transaction of Alsace from Germany to French administration, but a disposition to question the real sentiment of Alsatians toward France while there was no question of the desire of all France to make Alsace a satisfied member of the French family.

Today's discussion took the aspect of a party conflict from the beginning. The socialists contended that Alsace ought to accept all French laws adopted while the province was under the Berlin government, while the conservatives put forward the

Warm, Moist Weather Seen For City Today

Continued unsettled weather accompanied by more rain and slightly higher temperatures will be Atlanta's weather menu today, according to the forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, head of the local U. S. weather bureau, who says that Thursday's unpleasant conditions will stick around at least.

The recent warm spell came to a rather abrupt end Thursday when the mercury started a 4 and failed to get above 45 all day. This, while much below the maximums of 70 and above that have been registered recently, is still far from the real winter weather that is gripping the northwest, and Mr. von Herrmann has practically disappeared in the fog of a low temperature in this direction.

He is predicting a range from 40 to 55 for today and states that there isn't any real winter, in sight. Despite the fact that it has seemingly rained steadily in Atlanta and vicinity for the past few days, the weather bureau records show a deficiency for the month of January of approximately one and one-quarter inches. The temperature, however, has declined in the opposite direction. There was a definite drop of 24 degrees on January 14, but since that time, the mounting mercury has piled up an excess of 88 degrees, which amounts to an average of 4.4 degrees a day above the normal figures.

Mr. Faulkner is executive secretary of the Georgia Tuberculosis association.

Members of the committee and other guests were entertained Thursday night by the Atlanta Tuberculosis association at a banquet at the Hotel Raleigh. The organization's building on Cain street, included among the guests were Dr. Haygood, R. F. Hudson, president of the conference; J. P. Faulkner, executive secretary of the Tennessee Tuberculosis association; Dr. Elton W. Glidden, superintendent of the Georgia State Tuberculosis sanitarium; Dr. J. C. Bland, state assistant superintendent of the state sanitarium, and Dr. F. C. Cowley, head of the Muscogee county sanitarium.

Trotsky Followers Nabbed in Move For His Return

Moscow, January 24.—(AP)—Charging that supporters of Leon Trotsky are working in the red army, the communist party has declared relentless war to end counter revolutionary activities. Trotsky, once powerful as leader of the red army, is now in exile in Russian Turkestan. One hundred and fifty of his followers have been arrested in Moscow and other parts of Russia and subjected to strict isolation.

A statement published in behalf of the communists accuses the Trotskyites of working in the red army and referring to it as their army for the coming revolution. The Trotsky supporters were alleged to be preparing for a new civil war against the proletarian dictatorship and the soviet union. It was charged that Trotsky had published a statement abroad to the effect that the present soviet government was "Kerenskyism turned inside out."
